Notifying Public Agencies to Respond to Your Alarm

If you want to notify a public agency (such as a police or sheriff's department) to respond to your alarm, you must contact them and comply with any conditions they impose. Most police departments have few, if any restrictions or requirements. Some do not respond. It is your responsibility to comply with their requirements before requesting that Why'rd dispatch the agency to any alarm. After you have complied with any and all requirements they have established and have their permission to be notified to respond to your alarms, contact our office 801-210-8111 with their dispatch phone number, and any other permit or dispatch information that they will require from our dispatch center. We will then add them to your alarm response list. You can decide whether you want them dispatched before or after notifying you or someone on your call list. You do have the option of not dispatching any public agency.
